

WORKSHOPS OF PARTICIPATORY FORESIGHT

Climate change, digitalization and geopolitics are having a profound effect on the lives of Europeans. To support the transition to a green, digital and fairer Europe, the European Commission is strengthening its culture of preparedness and promoting strategic foresight in policy making. Foresight is the discipline of exploring, anticipating, and shaping the future using collective intelligence.

The Italian EUSALP Presidency invites the Youth Council and other youth organizations of the Alpine regions to participate in the foresight workshops about the following three issues

#1 / Jobs of the future in the Alps

April 22 2022, Trento 2-6 pm (Sala Depero)

Automation, hyperconnectivity, green transition and climate change are changing the forms of employment, with the potential to substitute both routine and cognitive tasks, while increasing the need for new skills and creating unprecedented opportunities.

What are the trends that might influence the jobs of the future in the Alps?

#2 / The future digitalization in the Alps

3 May 2022, Trieste 9 am-1 pm (Hotel Savoia)
Digital Alps Conference

Technologies are changing how we live and transforming systems of production, governance, education and center-periphery relationship.

What are the trends that might influence the future digitalization in the Alps?

How will digitalization impact the future development of the Alps?

#3 / A future order in the Alps

4 June 2022, Trento 2.30-6.30 pm (Facoltà di Economia)
Festival dell'Economia

With increasing urbanization and land abandonment, different types of inequalities seem persisting and widening despite progress to address them.

How can we shape a local integrated development of the EUSALP area and fight the abandonment of rural areas in the Alps?

The workshop approach is inspired to the Three Horizons method, highly interactive and creative, with the aim of defining shared visions on possible and desirable futures and bringing ideas to EUSALP institutions. The proposed method is applicable to any common context or issue, so participants will learn a tool to apply in their own context.

The workshops are planned to be held in presence, participation is open to young people between 18 and 29 years, limited to a maximum of 50 participants.

Anyone who has great visions or ideas on one or more of the aforementioned topics, or wants to learn a method of participatory foresight is welcome!
